After Life Journal

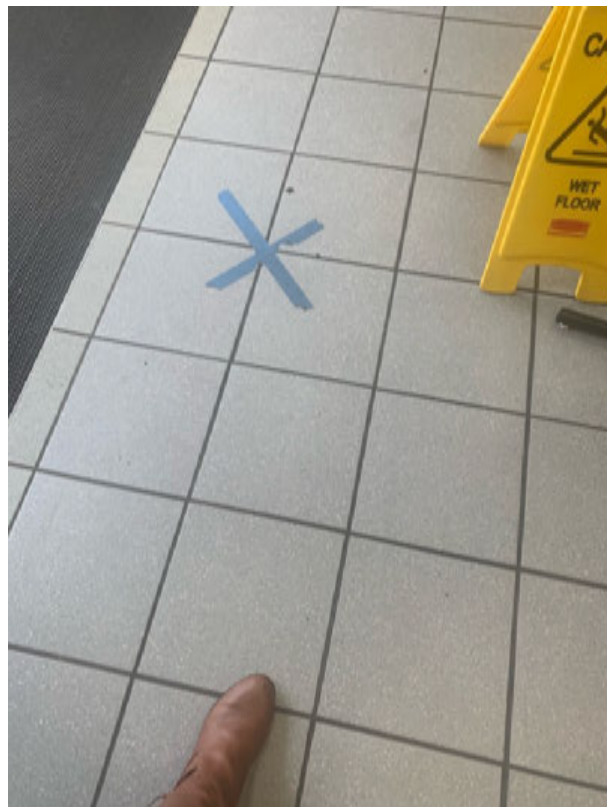

On March 22, I went to a nearby grocery store which was Walmart. As I arrived at Walmart it was packed with a lot of people. The lines were long, and the employees were having a hard time conducting everyone to stay 6ft away from one another. This transformation in life has affected not just me, but so many people. This transformation. Has left people hoarding foods, which made it hard to shop for any meats, fruits, and even can goods.

On March 23, was an overwhelming day for a few of my friends. We decided to take a trip to the Rivertown Mall, in Grand Rapids, Michigan. We did expect that this transformation could spread so fast in just a few hours. We were told that the mall was open, but not for a long time. As we arrived and walked into the mall there was a janitor putting the rest of the chairs up, the mall was completely empty, not one person in sight. This day has affected us where the mall was a place for a lot of people to go, and explore new things, try new food, and surround themselves with positive people.

On March 24, I went to Wesco, Wesco is a place where I always get my gas from. Because of this Coronavirus Wesco has restricted their operation hours closing early, as well as they placed blue X's on the floor. The X, s represents a 6ft social distance where people are supposed to stand on. If they are not standing on the X, then they are not following the guidelines staying 6ft away. This has affected people who are loyal customers. For those who have to stand in line, just to be told to stand on an X. our society is being put to the test how well enough they are willing to prevent the virus.

On March 24, I didn't expect every local building where most people go shopping at will be closed due to the Coronavirus. I went back out to the mall, however I decided to drive out to the Lakes Mall here in Muskegon. This mall didn't have much to begin with, but it had a few stores, and food restraints that a lot of people went to. As I drove to the mall, I notice every outlet was closed down. They were closed down because they were not essential business. They were essential because, not everything they had in the stores were needs a person could use in their daily lives. I noticed nail shops were closed, Tj Maxx was closed, and even Barns and Nobles. However, I realized these places were business that people could have easily spread the virus around.

On March 25, I decided that would use this time to keep on exploring and finding places that were being affected by the Coronavirus. For some people this place was a great working environment, the employees were always smiling, place was well kept up, everywhere you went was clean. The movies were a place to and see movies, it was a way for people who do not have television, or movies to watch. The movies were also a place to and hang out with friends. This has affected me because, I can. No longer do the fun things at the movies, watch the new movies that came out, and hang out with friends. I have been in the house with nothing to do but watch movies I have already seen over and over again.

On March 26, my little brother was upset that he had to his homework assignments, even though he was not in school. I realized that not only college students are affected, and have to do inline classes, but the elementary students are affected as well. It was very difficult for us to manage his assignments because there was no communication between his teacher and my mother. By the end of the day we were able to get through it, and he was still upset.

March 27, I was able to witness a transformation in my job. I work at jets Pizza, and due to this Coronavirus, my job has made it to where customers are only able to place orders for carryout, curbside, and for delivery. They are not allowed to come into the lobby. As far as the workers, everyone shifts have been cut, and the building has been completely empty. It has been empty because we are enforcing only four crew members working at a time.
